

Aha! How Is ‘The Surface Of The Table Is Flat’ Represented

By Kevin A. Sensenig

Draft 1.01

2020 July 10

Aha! How is ‘surface’ represented; as in, ‘the surface of the table is flat’ – in...

1. the brain
2. the mind
3. biogenetics
4. neural networks and molecular computing
5. the brain-as-mind
6. the relational of neurons
7. intra-neuronal
8. in terms of ‘unfolding combinatorial-principle interconnected relational action-perceptual memes’
9. the external world
10. Mind itself
11. samadhi
12. routine observation
13. non-discriminating mind and the nondual
14. discriminating mind
15. mind seeing and working in terms of the reified, objectified
16. the fusion of the abstract and the concrete
17. geometry and mathematics
18. physics
19. conjunction with the sentence, and with respect to ‘table’, and ‘flat’
20. meaning
21. dimension, and space
22. the room, form, and function

How is ‘The surface of the table is flat.’ represented? The sentence? The fact? The awareness in one’s mind? How is contemplation, reflection, or action represented?

Is the surface of the table empty, is there a book on the table, is the book open or closed, is the book about to be opened, or was it just closed, is there a journal on the table, is there a vase on the table? Is there a chair beside the table?

Aha! How Is ‘The Surface Of The Table Is Flat’ Represented

Page 1 of 2

Psychiatrists should really consider all of this!

But then it would be mvo-p psych – and mvo-p itself. And whatever this actual world is.

Enjoy. :-)