

Components Of Treatment At WeSH

Kevin A. Sensenig Draft 1.07-L 2025 May 30 – July 7

There is real space for the individual to take initiative with the treatment team and other components of treatment at WeSH. The multi-role, multi-category, particular aspects, and their integration of the components of treatment, especially when integrated and formed with the WeSH ideals and policies, make them comprehensive, realistic, and beneficial in fact and potential.

From the WeSH set of ideals, Values List, 2025. Posted on the Unit, and in the Consumer Guide:

“The presence of an empathetic, hopeful, continuous treatment relationship.”

“The individual’s capacity to grow, thrive, and achieve.”

“The individual’s need for independence” [in an interdependent world]

From the WeSH Consumer Guide p. 5 under Social Work:

“advance well-being and opportunities for maximum self-development”

These are well visualized; all of these are present, and some have yet to be dimensioned out.

The components of treatment:

- ___ Treatment Team (multi-role staff and participant with the individual, yet discipline and ethos)
- ___ Individual Treatment Plan (ITP) Interval Form (annotations by the individual with treatment team)
- ___ Psychiatry (dimension ideal psychiatry plus)
- ___ Psychology (genuine and compassionate)
- ___ Social Work (activated and dimension)
- ___ Individual Social Work Project Form (productive things to work on during personal time)
- ___ Groups (in several categories, from psychology to social work to d&a to culture to spirituality)
- ___ Resources (shared space, library, music, wellness room, activities)
- ___ Room (as personal space place of resource, intersecting with other components)

These are options, within the ideals, rights, and reason. Available for the individual in a treatment, dimension program, communal; and in an existential, experiential, social, and societal space. This is what the state, the professionals, and society have put here. For what should be obvious and subtle benefit.

This is really a nice set of components of treatment, and to have them enunciated as its multi-angle fact and opportunity, is of benefit.
