

Median Behavior As The Real (All Else False), In Mainstream Western Psychology

Kevin A. Sensenig Draft 1.06 2025 September 21 – October 9

A critique.

The median, it is enforced, in behavior and speech, in the mainstream Western model of psychology, as...

... the median behavior of all behaviors which must be

... the median number of syllables of all words in English, as the acceptable number of syllables in the word(s) I am to use, ever

.. the median number of syllables of all words in English, as the acceptable number of syllables in the word(s) I am to use, ever

... the median definition of all words in English as the only definition to use

... the median thought that I should have, the median of all thoughts possible

... the median personality of all personalities

... the median expression of all expressions

... the median action of all actions

... the median proposition of all propositions

... the median picture of all pictures and the median representation of all representations

... the median meaning to state, represent, or convey, of all meanings

... the median musical note of all musical notes

... the median gesture of all gestures

... the median number of steps to take (at a moment in time) of all steps taken (at some moment in time, of all time)

... the median position to take, of all positions

... the median direction to take of all directions taken

... the median point in space to be at, of all points in space having been at

... the median integer of all integers

... the median length of all lengths

... the median -- of all these things, from multivariate, real, social and personal life, the actual data -- ... as the only acceptable, real thing.

... the median ... as the only acceptable, real thing

→ and all else is a disorder, likely a serious mental illness, sans discussion or discovery of real data. And such an interpretation as the median-as-the-only-real-thing, of all real data, leads to mandatory treatment with medication and this mainstream psychology.

This is one of the fundamentals of the psych unit and mental health hospital industry, and its psychology and psychiatry.

For instance, in a meeting, with an RN and a Psychiatrist, in a psych unit:

Me: “What you all do is take the median of all behaviors from the actual data, and hold that to be the only acceptable behavior, and all else is a disorder.”

RN: “Yes, that is what we do.”

This is from an actual meeting in a psych unit in 2025.

This idea of the median (of all things) is enforced by State and Corporation (the mainstream Western medical model, and the local County community corporation behavioral health hospitals, and sometimes at WeSH) policy and theory, on behavioral mental health. It is insane. It is not this universe, world, individual, nor single event, fact, action, thought, particle, space, in all context, at all. The reality is instead the source data and its explanations and its experiential.

The answer is discussion and dialogue and training on real data ... as lived and potential, things, nothing, their relationships, their space, and their context, and all things, at-once and unfolding – metaphysics and a single or more sound observation and participation in a participant, immersive universe and point in time.
